St. Louis Address in Page 2

BY JOHN F. CHESTER.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4.—(P)—Before a throng that filled this auditorium, President Hoover tonight declared the democratic party was conducting "a campaign of evasion" and that its "evils" extended even to the prohibition question.

The chief executive asserted directly that democratic leaders were seeking to win votes through the "deliberate representation" that the republican party was responsible for the depression.

He called upon Franklin D. Roosevelt to answer more than a dozen political questions. He was cheered for more than five minutes as he appeared and again as he stood up to speak.

Noisy and protracted receptions given Mr. Hoover throughout the first day of his coast-to-coast dash placed his train far behind schedule.

Compares To 1864's
At Springfield, Ill., where he spoke after laying a wreath upon Abraham Lincoln's tomb, the president said that the choice of the republican party was no great that part of his party was left behind.

"The same alternatives are before the country today that lay before it in the momentous campaign of nearly three-quarters of a century ago," the president told his Springfield audience. "The choice that the American people made in 1864 was made on November 8. The choice they are called to make in 1932 will be made on November 8. My fellow citizens, can we doubt what the choice will be?"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 4.—(P)—Fifteen weeks at the Cambridge public library today resulted in the return by John Mackintosh of a book, "The Story of Scotland," 38 years overdue.

5 STATES GRANTED $6,557,000 LOANS FOR RELIEF NEEDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(P)—The Reconstruction Corporation today authorized relief loans totaling $6,557,000 to Pennsylvania, Indiana, Virginia, Washington and New Hampshire.

In so doing, however, the directors informed Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, that his state itself must do more to relieve suffering than it has if he expects the corporation freely to vote further federal assistance.

The governor of Washington received $105,000 for Snohomish county and the chief executive of Virginia $72,425 for Augusta and Carroll counties and the city of Lynchburg.

The corporation announced regarding Pennsylvania continued the controversy between the directors and Governor Pinchot over the way money is to be allocated to Pennsylvania. Pinchot has asserted the belief that the money should be used to build a bridge for the state.

Coolidge and Hoover To Join in Final Plea

RENO, Nev., Nov. 4.—(P)—The Evening Gazette says it has learned President Hoover will make his final appeal to the nation in Reno, Nev., between 6:30 and 7:30 p. m. (Pacific coast time) Monday.

PARIS OUTLINES PLAN TO KEEP WORLD AT PEACE

U. S. Participation in Consultative Pact Is Keystone of French Proposal at Geneva.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 4.—(P)—Joseph Paul-Boncour, French minister of war, outlined France's new arms plan today and coupled it with an eloquent bid for American support.

He presented the plan, parts of which already had been revealed in Paris, to the steering committee of the world disarmament conference.

The war minister asked the nations of the world to organize international security by a series of three pacts. He praised the Hoover disarmament proposals and attempted to show how they could have maximum application under the Paris plan.

The most comprehensive of these is an agreement by the participating nations to consult with war measures.

The second pact would be a reaffirmation of loyalty to the covenant of the League of Nations and specific acknowledgment of the covenant's provisions for penalizing an offending state.

The third would be a regional agreement for mutual assistance against an aggressor.

J. T. Chappell, 32, Dying; Ruthless Robber Hunted

Wife, Seated in Auto, Witnesses Brutal Shooting of Husband, Employee of Stoddard Dry Cleaning Company.

James T. Chappell, 32, was shot a second time the man pulled out a pistol and shot his husband," Mrs. Chappell said. "He turned and ran down Third street. I was so horrified I did not look to see what the man looked like."

Mrs. P. M. York, 727 West Peachtree street, said that she saw the man standing in front of the drug store and that she heard Mr. Chappell talking loudly. She said she had reached the porch of her home, next door to Stoddard's, as the shot was fired.

"After the shooting I remembered that there seemed something funny in the actions of Mr. Chappell," Mrs. York said. "It seems to me now that he was trying to attract my attention as I passed within two feet of where he was standing."

Clifford Bullard, 15, 965 State street, an employee in the grocery of his brother, M. M. Bullard, 698 West Peachtree street, said he saw the man loitering on the sidewalk before Chappell appeared.

"I noticed the two men arguing together but my back was turned when the shot was fired," the Bullard boy said. "Afterward I ran outside and saw the man who did the shooting jump into a car and ride down Third street."

Captain A. J. Holcombe, who headed the investigation of the shooting, said he was convinced the robber had a confederate in the car because of the quick getaway and because Lloyd Binn, 15 Third street, N. W., reported seeing two men racing down Third street in a car immediately after he had heard the shot.

INSULT ARRESTED, PLACED IN JAIL BY GREEK POLICE

Attorney Declares Erstwhile Utilities Baron Is Ill and Should Be Placed in Hospital.

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 4.—(P)—Samuel Insull, under indictment in Chicago on charges which grew out of the collapse of the Middle West Utilities Company, was arrested today pending extradition.

They took him over to police headquarters and kept him there for the night, despite his attorney's plea that Mr. Insull, now 73 years old, is suffering from heart trouble and ought to be in a hospital.

The public attorney appointed two physicians to examine him and report tomorrow.

When it was announced yesterday that the Greco-American extradition treaty had finally been made effective by the formal exchange of instruments of ratification, it was certain that Mr. Insull's visit to Greece would be interrupted.

He came here several weeks ago from Paris by way of Italy, leaving each of those countries just ahead of a request for his arrest. While the American treaty with Greece remains incomplete he was not seriously molested.

Just after noon today the police commissioner called at Mr. Insull's hotel. He went upstairs and served him with a warrant. The prisoner was given time to dress and have lunch.

YOUNG'S ADDRESS BRINGS ADVANCE IN WALL STREET

Prices of Commodity Issues Rise Sharply on Strength of Assurances by Democratic Speaker.

BY OTTO E. STURM.
United Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Owen D. Young's denial last night that election of a democratic administration would result in disaster brought sweeping change in Wall Street sentiment today and the commodity and security market bounded upward.

Young, industrialist and economist known internationally, made his declaration in the course of an address endorsing the presidential candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Bonds joined the rally, as did wheat, cotton and other commodities. Much of the "fear psychology" regarding the probable election results was dissipated, observers reported, and the slow but steady selling that had kept the market early in the week came to a halt.

Buying orders had been accumulated when the market opened. Initial prices of most commodities were fractionally higher. The gains were extended as the day advanced.

Wheat shot up more than 2 cents a bushel, new hogs a dollar a bale. Bonds were up 1 to 5 points and more when the final gong rang.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE. ACADEMY OF MUSIC, BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(P)—In a joint denunciation of republican policies, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith brought several thousand Brooklyn citizens tonight an assertion that the republican party "has forfeited the respect of the people."

For more than an hour after they had entered the flag-draped stage of the Academy of Music the democratic presidential candidate and the brown derby nominee of the republican party about in calling for the repudiation of the present administration and the election of democrats—straight down the line from the presidency to state level.

While several thousand other persons sought to penetrate closely drawn police lines to make their way into the hall, whose doors were closed two hours before the meeting began, Mr. Roosevelt and former Governor Smith came together in a political rally in keeping with the long-standing democratic custom of ending their campaign in the New York city area.

Governor Roosevelt referred again to his assertion that the administration was seeking to spread a "gospel of fear."

"I have pointed out and driven home by straight argument, based on undisputed facts, that the administration of government under the present leadership in Washington has been distinguished by destruction, delay, deceit and dishonesty," he said.

The democratic candidate referred again to the monetary, tariff and governmental economic policies he had described in his speeches and said that he had offered the "practical common sense of the democratic platform."

In a speech bristling with satire, former Governor Smith said that the administration not only had failed to bring about governmental economy but had "overthrown himself, with the aid of a republican congress, further bedeviled the situation by creating in four years 35 new departments and boards."

NEW YORKER HELD IN PEN DOPE PROBE IS $50,000 SHORT

Sidney Goltz Jailed as Eastern Link in Narcotic Distribution Chain.

As federal agents made their fourth arrest in an alleged plot to supply Atlanta federal prisoners with narcotics, Inspector P. A. Williams and J. W. Crozier Friday revealed that one of the three persons now held, a woman, has for some time been supplying dope to an unknown number of convicts.

The new arrest was that of Sidney Goltz, picked up Friday night in a Brooklyn barber shop by narcotic inspectors working out of the New York city office.

Williams and Crozier revealed that the woman, Clara Doss, of Damascus, Va., has been receiving money from all over the country from friends and relatives of prisoners here and that she has been forwarding dope to the prison.

Her husband, Dewey Doss, also is being held. He is an electrician employed at the prison, was arrested Wednesday night and Doss and his wife were taken into custody Thursday. Smith is in the Fulton tower in default of $5,000 bond.

According to the agents the dope obtained by the Doss woman either was sent here to a postoffice box, at which Smith was apprehended Thursday as he removed from it a package said to have contained opium, or sent by another means to the Doss woman's brother, Robert Dodson, alias Gibson, an inmate in the Atlanta pen.

Workers To Continue Drive Through Week- End To Reach Goal

Today will be a half-holiday for a majority of people, but for 1,500 field workers in the campaign to raise $400,000 for the Community Chest it will be an opportunity to see many thousands who are absent from their homes except on Saturday afternoons.

They will continue their unrelenting efforts to reduce further the campaign deficit of $30,000 and to increase present subscriptions of $247,619.

The shortage of $50,554 in the $100,000 emergency relief fund continued to exist Friday, with no new contributions reported for that charity.

Driving ahead Thursday and Friday, workers brought cards to Chest headquarters showing $11,694 in new contributions. Leaders and division chairmen reported new donations as follows: Groups division, Robert H. Martin, chairman, $7,052; women's division, Mrs. Preston Arkwright, chairman, $4,800; and Lee Potter, chairman of the individuals division, $2,927.

The advance gifts division turned in $1,025.

No report meeting will be held today in order that division chairmen might have the full time to work with field men and women.

'DIVINE' RIGHT IDEA IS LAID TO REST

Johnson Says G. O. P. Candidate Thinks Masses Should Be Bled.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(P)—Senator Hiram Johnson, republican, California, in an address delivered here today asserted that the Hoover administration had conducted "our affairs as if there were a divine right of big business to exploit all the rest of us."

The California republican, supporter of President Hoover in the 1928 campaign, spoke in behalf of the democratic candidacy of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The philosophies of government which clash in this struggle," Senator Johnson said, "are exactly the same which led to the glorious progressive republicanism of 1912."

"The one represents, and this is his (President Hoover's), the 'divine right' of big business and of the international bankers and of great corporations to maintain, operate and conduct our government; and the other represents, and it is Roosevelt's, the right of all the people, high and low, big and little, rich and poor alike, to share in the blessings of government and participate, if bounty be extended, in its benefits," Senator Johnson said.

The president's philosophy of government was "made very plain," Senator Johnson said, during the "three tragic years" of his administration. The president's economic views and governmental philosophy, he said, were formed years ago.

'MOUNTIES' HALT RIOT AT PRISON

Canadian Prisoners Set Fire to Tailor Shop and Attack Guards.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL, Quebec, Nov. 4.—(P)—Rioting convicts in the penitentiary on the island of Jesus at St. Vincent de Paul today set fire to the prison tailor shop and attacked the guards with knives and clubs and slunk back into their cells when the Royal Canadian mounted police arrived.

It was the third such disturbance in a Canadian prison in two weeks. This one started in the tailor shop where two guards were supervising the work of about 15 prisoners. Everything looked normal.

Suddenly, one of the guards said later, the men whipped out knives and clubs as though by signal. A negro convict named Crossley rushed a guard named Aubrey. He beat Aubrey with his club and in a moment there were screams and curses and the peculiar yammering which seems to mark a prison riot.

Several of the men in the tailor shop set fire to the building. They rushed out as the flames swept up the wall. Prisoners from other shops gathered around in a menacing mob.

The guards went to their fire stations. Several of them manned the hose. Convicts with knives cut the line and the flames roared in the tailor shop.

The warden telephoned to Montreal and fire apparatus raced over the nine miles from the city. The fire was out an hour after it started, but the roof had fallen in and the building was ruined.

It was not until a detachment of the mounted police galloped through the gates that the men themselves submitted.

Quickly they were herded back to their cells, all but Crossley, the man who appeared to have started the trouble. He was thought to have been burned to death in the tailor shop, but he was discovered later in an adjoining building and locked up.

Another prisoner who took part in the uprising nearly died. He was locked in a cell on one of the upper floors of the workshop. While the fire was hottest the guards below saw him through the bars of his cell, throwing his body against the door in a futile effort to get out.

When the fire was sufficiently under control two guards went up and carried him out unconscious.

There were indications that today's trouble had its roots in overcrowding of the prison. There are 1,132 inmates, a considerable increase from the total of 1081 when the prison population was 888.

Ailing Boy Athlete Vanishes From Bed

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 4.—(P)—William Westenberg III, 19-year-old athlete and a scion of a prominent family, disappeared early today from his home where he had been confined to bed by illness.

He was asleep at 12:30 a. m. when his mother went to minister to his needs, police were told.

The boy's father, William Westenberg Jr., told police he knows of no explanation for the youth's disappearance other than that he may have been delirious or suffering from a nervous breakdown as a result of an attack by robbers in July.

Value and Confidence in Life Insurance Heightened by Franklin D. Roosevelt

WARM SPRINGS IS BENEFICIARY IN $500,000 POLICY

Alfred C. Newell, Insurance Leader Here, Relates Interesting Story About Roosevelt's First Policy

BY VICTOR BARRON.

Life insurance, which already has proven that it has been the bulwark of safety and comfort during the greatest depression in history of the present generation, has recently been given a further tremendous impetus by the next president of the United States—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

During the course of an interview the other day, Alfred C. Newell, general agent of the Columbian National Life, with offices in the Chandler building, and one of the most public-spirited of the country's life insurance managers, as well as being active and influential in the commercial and social life of this community, related a story about the Roosevelt's related insurance, which is worth any one's time to digest.

In his younger days Mr. Newell made a brilliant and colorful record as a newspaperman and college professor. He began his newspaper career as a desk reporter on "The Constitution." Later he went to New York and served on the staff of the Brooklyn Eagle, for which paper he was Spanish-American war correspondent. For four years he was political writer on the staff of the New York World. He was for some time one of Joseph Pulitzer's secretaries. In 1905 he was chief of publicity for the Philippine exhibition at the St. Louis World Fair, which position he assumed at the personal request of William Howard Taft, then governor general of the Philippines. In his newspaper career Mr. Newell showed marked ability and earned a place of national distinction.

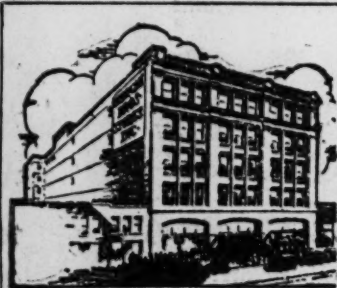

However, he desired to enter business for himself and make his home in the south. Consequently, he returned to Atlanta and went into the insurance business, becoming general agent of the Columbian National Life.

Newell during his New York newspaper career had a pal named Lawrence Hill Gramme, who was political writer for the New York Post and Spanish-American war correspondent.

"Teddy" Roosevelt, who was made history in the insurance business.

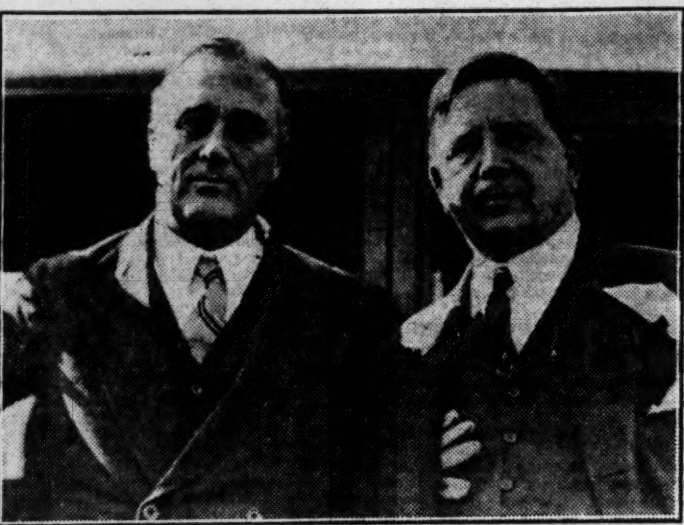

"Gramme came by my hotel one morning, all packed. I asked, 'Where are you going?' He said to Washington to see President Roosevelt. 'For what?' I asked, and he snapped back, 'To sell him some insurance.' 'To the White House he went.' 'Teddy' Roosevelt.

A Friend to the Insurance World

GOV. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Confidence of the public in life insurance, which has proved depression-proof during the severe world-wide business depression, has been further heightened by the announcement recently that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic presidential nominee, and Georgia's adopted son, has taken out a half-million life insurance policy, making the Warm Springs Foundation the beneficiary. Warm Springs is one of the dearest and closest things in the heart of this great man who came to Georgia more than 10 years ago seeking a restoration of his health from a malady which threatened to end his brilliant public career. That he was restored to perfect health could not be better testified to than by his nation-wide tour during the last few weeks which he stood without showing the slightest sign of fatigue. "He must be in splendid shape, or else he could have never obtained a half-million insurance policy," declared Alfred C. Newell, general agent of the Columbian National Life Insurance Company in Atlanta. He is shown here with Governor Roosevelt upon the occasion of his visit here last year to attend the South-eastern fair.

dy gave him his usual happy salutation, but when he found out what his mission was about, he leaped back in his chair and gave him a laugh. "Why no one but a moral coward would take out life insurance," Gramme said. "All right; but say, what if you get 'plugged' like McKinley, Lincoln, Garfield and others, have you sufficient income to maintain your family as they have been custom?" Roosevelt started at him and said, "I haven't thought of that." He walked over to a window and propped his foot on the sill and thought for several minutes.

"Finally he said: 'Fix it up for $500,000.'"

"That was the first life insurance 'Teddy' Roosevelt ever had. He had to be sold. Later events in the life of the former president confirmed the warning of this newspaperman and insurance writer—a worthy deed for a worthy and beloved leader of our nation during his career."

Governor Roosevelt Rewards Georgia. Here Mr. Newell branched off to Governor Franklin Roosevelt, pointing out that the democratic presidential nominee and who, from all indications promises to be our next president, only recently took out $500,000 of life insurance, making his beneficiary the Warm Springs Foundation—a further exemplification of his love for Georgia and particularly the place where he was restored to perfect health.

"The future welfare of this famous Georgia resort is the uppermost thought in Franklin Roosevelt's mind," said Mr. Newell. "And, to assure it continuous growth and permanency for humanity sake, he has willed the foundation at Warm Springs half-million-dollars of life insurance. He not only has demonstrated and manifested his faith and confidence in life insurance, but at the same time he has proved to the world that he is in perfect health, which he attributes to Georgia's great gift from nature—the

WARM WEATHER IS SIGNAL FOR COAL CONSUMERS TO BUY

Dealers Urge Consumers To Take Advantage of Ideal Delivery Conditions To Anticipate at Least Part of Needs.

With November at hand and Thanksgiving just around the corner, bringing to an end autumn days and ushering in the period for cold, rainy and icy weather conditions, members of the Atlanta Coal Merchants' Credit Association strongly urge consumers not to further postpone placing their orders for at least part of their season's supply of coal.

They emphasize the satisfaction in knowing that you have good coal in the cellar. "If you can only store a few tons, or less, order immediately at least 15 days' supply," one dealer pointed out. "Since there is always a possibility of blizzard weather after the first of November, consumers have all to gain and nothing to lose by ordering their supplies now, while weather conditions permit ideal delivery conditions."

Dealers point out that a warm home wards off sickness, thus preventing costly medical bills. The price of coal today is at the lowest level in years.

Local dealers are anxious that their consumers place their orders without delay in order that they may benefit from present low prices, as well as to enable them to assure prompt and efficient delivery. Co-operation is needed this winter to help prevent suffering, it is further stated, and coal consumers are urged to take advantage of the cash discounts, or to use their charge accounts.

It seems that prevailing ideal fall weather is only a warning and grace period given consumers to prepare for the winter when fires will be needed in every home and business establishment. The most economical and desirable thing consumers can do before the weather man sidetracks the lukewarm days for the freezing days ahead is to fill their bins with at least part of their winter's requirements.

The things we do today may seem to be lost, but in the great financial revealing the samblest of them will appear.—James Russell Lowell.

Cleary Heads Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.

MICHAEL J. CLEARY.

Michael J. Cleary, since 1919 vice president in charge of agencies for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, has been elected to the presidency of the company, according to announcement here by Luther E. Allen, general agent for Georgia of the company, which was founded in 1857 and which he has been connected with since.

Naturally enough, in his younger days he was honored by the suffrages of his neighbors in Lafayette county, Wisconsin, and he served in the lower house of the legislature of Wisconsin in 1907 and 1908. It was while he was so serving that he moved to equip himself with a keener and more intimate knowledge of life insurance, and, in 1910, which has led him to the forefront in the profession of life insurance.

Honored by Wisconsin. In 1915 Mr. Cleary was named executive counsel and later insurance commissioner of Wisconsin, serving until spring, 1919, when he was elected a vice president of the Northwestern Mutual, which his principal duties assigned to the underwriting side of the business. When the World War began he originated the idea, and induced the insurance commissioners of the United States and the life insurance companies of the country to come together to consider a "war clause" for life policies. In 1918 the insurance commissioners of the United States and the life insurance companies of the country to come

Sterchi Features Bonded Tires

A view of part of the large automobile tire department at Sterchi's. This is one of the many departments at this large homefurnishings establishment located at 116-120 Whitehall street. A. H. Fulton is manager of this department, as well as the wall paper and paint departments.

In addition to operating every related department to home furnishings, Sterchi's, located in its commodious establishment, 116-120 Whitehall street—former location of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBoise Company—has a complete automobile tire department, as well as one of the finest wall paper and paint departments in the city.

These departments are under the management of A. H. Fulton. He is assisted by T. W. Guthrie and C. W. Wiggins. The automobile tires are known as Sterchi Bros. Bonded Tires and are carried in all wanted sizes. They are guaranteed. Sterchi's does a considerable business throughout this territory in these departments.

In the paint department one can buy any amount desired from the smallest quantity for painting small articles in the house to gallonage sufficient to paint a house. All colors and the highest grade paints are carried in addition to accessories such as brushes, etc.

In order to aid the unemployed situation here and to assure consumers efficient service, Sterchi's have the names of 200 of the leading painters and wall paper experts, which they gladly will give to any customer desiring reliable painters and wall paper hangers. The department also has for distribution to consumers one of the giving of the year 1925 down to the end of the year 1931.

The interest rate on policyholders' funds under settlement options and dividends left on deposit was continued at 4 1/2 per cent, the same as fixed for 1932. This gross rate is 1 per cent in excess of the company's guaranteed interest rate of 3 1/2 per cent.

Change Dividend Year. The announcement from Cincinnati also reveals that the company is now making a change in its fiscal dividend year, which hereafter will run from June 1 to June 1 of the succeeding year instead of coinciding with the calendar year as heretofore. In commenting on the action of the board, President W. Howard Cox said:

"This upward revision in the dividend basis is most gratifying as it will mean that a policyholder will receive on the average a 36 1/2 per cent larger dividend than he received in 1932. While hereafter the dividend year will be from June to June, and the new basis has been officially adopted for the first five months of the dividend company will set aside in its annual statement a liability for a full 12 months' dividends."

BIRD ROOFING IS GUARANTEED FOR TEN YEARS

Willingham-Tift Features "Twin-Lock" Shingles. Only Experienced Men Employed; "Re-Roofs" Before Winter Sets In.

W. B. Willingham Jr., secretary and treasurer of the Willingham-Tift Lumber Company, one of the oldest and largest concerns of its kind in the southeast and with more than 25 years' steady growth and expansion, has returned from Louisville, Ky., where he attended the annual convention of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' Association.

"It was one of the most constructive meetings ever held by the association," Mr. Willingham said. "We left feeling decidedly more cheerful as regards the future business outlook." The company recently inaugurated a re-roofing department, of which R. P. Ellis is manager, who has been in the roofing application business for more than ten years in Atlanta. This department makes a specialty of re-covering old roofs with "Bird" roofing materials, featuring their "Twin-Lock" shingle, which is made specially to be applied directly over old wood shingles or composition roofs, thereby preserving the insulation value of the original roofing.

Guaranteed for 10 Years. "Bird" roofing and accessories are recognized as one of the finest and most durable in existence today. The roofs are guaranteed for 10 years. The company carries a great variety of colors and patterns, each suitable to satisfy the individual home and taste of property owners.

"I strongly advise property owners not to delay in re-roofing their homes, or their business buildings, before cold, rainy and sleety weather sets in," Mr. Ellis said.

Mr. Ellis emphasized that Willingham-Tift employs only the most thoroughly experienced roofers and that experienced salesmen are every ready to give estimates and advice to homeowners. Every job is done under special supervision of experts who know their profession. Another feature which the company has is that every man employed is protected by accident insurance by the company and which relieves the property owners of any damage claims in case of accident.

Zinc-Clad Nails Used. Mr. Ellis pointed out that no roof is better than the nails used in its application. This, he says, is as true as the old maxim, "No chain is stronger than its weakest link." The company uses zinc-clad nails, which are rustless, in applying "Bird" roofing.

"There is a tremendous amount of roofing jobs to be done," Mr. Ellis said, "and that if property owners should rush into the market for materials at one time, it would virtually electrify the market and considerably higher prices would be the result. There already has been a sharp advance in prices from the lowest level, but Willingham-Tift has been fortunate in that it purchased a large stock of roofing and other building materials before the advance, and this saving is being passed along to consumers."

PLANT CLOSING RUMOR IS DENIED BY LEGGE

Report Aimed To Injure Harvester Company, President Declares.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—"Untrue, unjustifiable, and calculated to injure the business of the International Harvester Company" was the comment of President Alexander Legge, president of that company and first president of the Hoover farm board, on a report that the company's plants would close if Roosevelt were elected, and continue open if President Hoover is re-elected.

Following is his letter of denial, denying the report as carried in a letter in The Chicago Tribune:

"Chicago Tribune,
"Chicago, Ill.
"Dear Sir:

"The letter published on the editorial page of today's Chicago Tribune from a contributor signing himself Charles Tyler is untrue and unjustifiable and is calculated to injure the business of the International Harvester Company.

"There is no truth whatever in Mr. Tyler's statement that we called a meeting of Harvester employees in the Moline-Davenport sector and informed them that if the democratic nominee were elected we planned to close down our factory there (the Farmall tractor plant at Rock Island) for two years, and that if the election went the other way we would proceed with a program of expansion. In fact, there has been no meeting of our employees there for a long time.

"This denial applies equally to all other Harvester plants as well as the factory at Rock Island. Our company has never sought by any such means to influence the political beliefs or the votes of its employees.

"The Harvester Company's plans and programs depend on economic conditions, not on political conditions. We have firm faith in the future of American agriculture. We confidently believe and expect that prices for farm commodities will soon improve and will enable us to go ahead actively with the manufacture and distribution of cost-reducing machines necessary to profitable farm operation.

"Yours very truly,
"ALEXANDER LEGGE,
"President."

DR. JONES SPEAKS AS NORTH FULTON HIGH IS DEDICATED

Impressive ceremonies marked the dedication Friday of the new half-million dollar North Fulton High school building on Delmont avenue, at which Dr. M. Ashby Jones, prominent Atlanta minister and educator, delivered the principal address. Speeches also were made by Dr. Herman L. Turner, Jr., of the Atlanta Board of Education; Cam Dorsey, chairman of the county board of education, and Mrs. Martin Rolleston, president of the Parent-Teacher Association. Pupils of the school acted as hosts to the 1,000 persons who attended the dedication in the auditorium. The building, which has been called the finest and most modern high school plant in the southeast, was decorated with palms and cut flowers. Charles L. Jordan, French consul, representing the builders, addressed the assembly, and a plaque of George Washington was presented to the library by George W. McArt, well known businessman. The Hi-Y Club gave the school a silver cup for scholarship award. W. F. Dykes, principal, presided at the exercises. The building has 20 classrooms, two lecture rooms, a 5,000-book library, a cafeteria accommodating 400, a modern gymnasium, equipped with showers and basketball courts, which seats 500 persons.

DECATUR TO OBSERVE ARMISTICE PROGRAM

Service organizations of Decatur have made arrangements for an elaborate celebration of Armistice Day Friday in the square at the courthouse under sponsorship of the Harold Byrd Post, No. 68, American Legion and other organizations. Hugh Burgess, commander of the post, will be master of ceremony and introduce the speakers.

The celebration will open with a band concert and at 11 o'clock there will be 30 seconds of silent prayer, followed by the sounding of taps in memory of the soldier dead, and closed with a benediction and the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner." Service organizations promoting the event are American Legion, Service Star Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, D. A. R., U. D. C. and Disabled American Veterans.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR C. H. KEEL, 64

The funeral of C. H. Keel, 64, veteran conductor with the W. & A. railroad, who died of a heart attack Wednesday night while making his run between Chattanooga and Atlanta, was held Friday afternoon from the Park Street Methodist church, with the Rev. J. H. Barton officiating. Interment was in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Mr. Keel, a native of Rome, had served with the W. & A. for the last 44 years, becoming associated with the company when he was 19 years of age. He was an active member of the Park Street Methodist church, and was a member of the Masonic lodge. Known as "Captain Keel," he had many friends over the state.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. P. E. Gentry; a sister, Mrs. Noah Slay, of Palestine, Texas; a brother, J. S. Keel, of Kilgore, Texas; and a granddaughter, Effie Dean Gentry, of Atlanta. Brandon-Bishop & Company were in charge.

CAROLINIAN KILLED BY GOTHAM POLICE

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(P)—A man who had been working here under the name of Francis Mattux, but who friends said was really Francis McGuinn, of New Bern, N. C., was killed early today after a five-mile automobile chase by police.

The police report said that Mattux was questioned by a policeman who saw him driving in circles in a Brooklyn street. Mattux was seen and the patrolman turned in an alarm that sent police radio cars converging on his trail.

Finally police began firing and Mattux was shot through the head. At the morgue a friend identified him as McGuinn, saying he was the son of a wealthy retired manufacturer of New Bern. No reason was known to police for his change of name or for his flight without apparent reason.

"50 Years of Underselling Atlanta"

Is 14 Million Dollars a Year Worth Saving?

FELLOW PARTNERS IN THIS BUSINESS OF LIVING:

We are approximately ten thousand of your fellow members in this great mutual organization we call Greater Atlanta—where we all strive to work and live together in our pursuit of happiness.

We are the Railroad Employees of the eight trunk lines radiating from this community.

It is our firm conviction—and we are confident you will agree—that our city as a whole prospers only to the extent that WE ALL PROSPER. It is faithful cooperation among us all that makes us mutually successful and happy.

For many, many years all of us Railroad Men had a steady job, kept our homes intact, our families in comfort and, under normal conditions spent the FOURTEEN MILLION DOLLARS paid us yearly in wages among YOU—our fellow citizens, who represent the business firms of the Atlanta district—for our daily needs. And you must admit we have been good spenders.

Now—as a result of the tremendous loss of traffic diverted from the Railroads to other modes of transportation employing only a very small number of Atlanta people, there are only about 60% of us at work and our total payroll has, as a result, shrunk to less than nine million dollars a year.

YOU STILL BID FOR OUR BUSINESS—and we still spend our wages with you—TO THE EXTENT THAT WE HAVE ANY WAGES TO SPEND!

We expect to continue spending our wages with you—BUT UNLESS WE GET THOSE WAGES WE CANNOT SPEND THEM. And unless YOU, our "Partners In This Business of Living"—YOU BUSINESS MEN OF THE ATLANTA DISTRICT—make it possible for us to hold our jobs there won't be many Railroad Men with wages to spend with you within another year.

Here's a Straightforward Message from 10,000 Atlanta Railroad Employees to Every Loyal Citizen in our Community

A Fourteen-Million-Dollar Annual Payroll—Nearly Ten Thousand Jobs—Support For Forty Thousand of Our People In Greater Atlanta, Can and Must Be Made Secure—For Our Own Security, if For Nothing Else.

Let's not mince words! You know as well as we do that if the traffic diverted from the Railroads during the past few years goes back to them, then the future of this vast family of Railroad Employees is assured. Employment under normal conditions will again be apparent in our line and NORMAL RAILWAY PAYROLLS WILL AGAIN BE CIRCULATED AMONG YOU!

Let matters continue as they are at present and the inevitable result is bankruptcy for the Railroads. Then, no doubt, Government operation—service curtailed to the minimum—only a fraction of the Railroad workers employed—the enormous RAILROAD PAYROLLS VANISHED, with nothing to take the place and the people paying the losses in the form of MORE TAXES.

Greater Atlanta has always been proud of her Railroads. We need our Railroads—and the Railroads need YOUR BUSINESS, if they are to remain in business.

To support this great family of Railroad Workers who, in turn, helps so greatly to support you, YOU MUST SUPPORT THE RAILROADS!

It's up to you—OUR NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS. The future of the Railroad Employee, whose future to a large extent affects your own future, IS IN YOUR HANDS!

We appeal to YOU, therefore—as you have appealed to us in the past. GIVE US YOUR BUSINESS! Give us your one hundred per cent support—FOR YOUR SAKE, as well as ours.

Ship by the Railroads, whether it be 100 pounds or 100,000 pounds, and, whenever possible, travel by the Railroads. Beg your friends to do likewise.

HELP US TO PATRONIZE YOU BY PATRONIZING US!

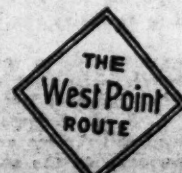

We are confident that this appeal in the interests of all our people will be answered as every appeal for the good of Atlanta has been answered by her loyal citizens.

LET'S ANSWER THIS APPEAL OF OUR FELLOW CITIZENS

And let's Patronize the following Loyal Business firms who have made this appeal possible:

Tech Plays Tulane Here Today; Georgia Hopes to Upset N.Y.U.

New Orleans is a city that never hurries. The people who have lived there for a long time know the joys of good food and hours spent in doing nothing at all. Cooks there will work for hours making one sauce, one dressing, or spend a day preparing a soup. And the result is a triumph of kitchen art. For a long time it was impossible to make the New Orleans football team at Tulane hurry. The boys would be thinking that it was a waste of time to be running with a football when it was possible to go fishing or hunt ducks. And they would think about a mallard duck stuffed with oysters and about wild rice and fresh green things. And so they never hurried much. And then they got some of the Minnesota people down there who didn't know the pleasures of eating or being idle. And Tulane began to hurry. The cold, biting words of Bernie Bierman and Ted Cox hurried them on. And so they developed into a great football team. Tech plays Tulane today at Grant field. Tech has been hurrying for years and years. But the Tulane have longer legs. They should get there first. But it should be a scalp-tingling contest. On firm vote for Tulane.

Georgia players will be dressing today in the quarters where Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig dress at New York when they play games in the Yankee stadium. There is an attendant there who will point out the great man's locker. The Yankee stadium is a cold place. The wind blows through it all the time and the writers in the press section sit with their feet on cold concrete. Their feet and their fingers freeze. At the half the management will pass around hot dogs, liberally lathered with mustard, and boiling coffee. The mustard gets on the copy paper and the coffee spills on your knee and the roller of your typewriter. Georgia plays N. Y. U. N. Y. U. has no stadium of its own. The land costs too much in New York. So they just rent the ball park. The New York team is called the Violets because that is the school flower and some sports writer named the team that. Georgia has picked Violets for the past two years. It has been very exciting, watching the Georgia boys pick Violets. This year the stems are tougher. But Georgia boys are good pickers. One faltering, weak-kneed vote for N. Y. U.

V. P. I.'s undefeated football team is known as "The Gobblers." It is getting close to Thanksgiving. Gobblers always get nervous about that time of the year. The V. P. I. Gobblers will be very nervous today. They play Alabammy. The Crimson jerseys of the Alabama team look like cranberry sauce. This will make the Gobblers even more frightened since the two always go together on the table. They meet on the gridiron today. One very firm vote for Alabama.

Vanderbilt will vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt in the election Tuesday. The team cannot endure the thought of Herbert Hoover. Vanderbilt plays Maryland in Washington today at the Washington baseball park. This nearness to the White House and the home of Herbert Hoover will so infuriate the Commodores that it will be a sad day for the Maryland football team. Four firm votes for the Commodores.

Chet Wynne, the Auburn coach, once had an uncle he did not care for at all. The uncle's name was Howard. He told Jimmy Hitchcock about it and Hitchcock, who is a loyal player, doesn't care for Uncle Howard. Ten firm votes for Auburn in the Howard game today.

All the buildings at Duke University look like English castles of the Tudor period. When the Kentucky team sees them it will think all the Duke players are English dukes and, being very polite, bow to them. This will enable the Dukes to run to a touchdown before the Kentuckians realize their mistake. One rather uncertain vote for Duke.

Tulane Undismayed. Tulane's football team, which rode into the city yesterday, bringing with them some of the warm weather of New Orleans and thus making the local temperature drop and rain threaten, is in an excellent humor and condition.

The Auburn defeat did not dismay the green-clad charges of Ted Cox, Lester Lautenschlager and Peggy Flournoy. They feel that they are in better shape now than at any time this season and believe they could take Auburn if another chance were given. One trouble with football contests is that they rank with Christmas—a fellow gets just one chance a year. Which explains some of the emphasis placed on the game by the spectators and those fellows who write for newspapers and create those heroes.

Ted Cox and his assistants have done an excellent job of coaching. Taking over a championship team is difficult in itself. Cox lost a star fullback, Nollie Felts, because of professional baseball, and Francis Payne, star halfback, because of an injured shoulder. Should Tulane be able to finish the remaining games undefeated, as she well may, Cox's season would be a decided success.

Georgia's Great Chance. Georgia's intersectional record, already magnificent, has a chance to become even greater today. No other southern team can point to four defeats of Yale within five years, three of them being consecutive. And no southern team has won two out of three games from as tough an eastern competitor as New York University. A Georgia victory today would mean three straight and three out of four.

The "Twelfth" Man. Coast teams tried out the 12-man football team last night. The 12-man team idea is direct proof that Satan will find things for idle brains to mull over.

It is a very startling procedure. The 12th man will step into the huddles and call the signals. He will then step back with the referee. Of course we have had quarterbacks calling signals but there seems to be no reason at all to keep on letting him call them. By all means have the 12th man.

It is not generally known but the 12th man is a first cousin of "The Forgotten Man" and this will bring him to public prominence.

The idea is to be carried further. Baseball teams will be made up of 11 men. There will be a man known as "the 10th man" who will stand by the pitcher and tell him what to pitch. And there will be an "11th man" who will stand by the batter and tell him what to hit.

These little innovations have long been needed in sport. The coast, with its super-men and super-minds would, of course, be the first to think of "the 12th man" on a football eleven.

No Dues, No Title, G. I. A. A. To Meet Says Conference Today at Y. M. C. A.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Two of the Southwest Georgia High School conference leaders have been barred from the 1932 football title race for technical causes. Valdosta and Fitzgerald High schools, both undefeated, have been ruled out by Treasurer T. B. Conner, of the conference, on the grounds that they failed to pay membership dues.

WAVE IS READY FOR GREAT GAME AT GRANT FIELD

By Ralph McGill.

Led by Don Zimmerman, the flying Dutchman from Lake Charles, the Tulane team has put the game of this season will meet the Georgia Tech eleven at 2 o'clock on Grant field.

It is just another adverse blow for the crippled Jackets that a team which was flat against Auburn and South Carolina should be surging back to the peak again for this game. But Tulane is on the way back. They were fumbling for the scoring combination against South Carolina, running up a huge amount of yardage, and scoring but once.

Tulane officials believe the team is at its best, although Ted Cox, head coach, would not predict just what his combination would do. Georgia Tech's starting lineup will not include the limping Ben Cherry or the hobbling Jerry Goldsmith, regular fullback and end.

A TRIPLE THREAT. Tulane's lineup will include two sophomore brothers, Bob and George Tesser, who will play shoulder to shoulder at left tackle and left guard respectively. There is also a change at end, the prospective lineup including Westfield instead of Phillips.

The Tulane backfield will be the usual combination of Pat Richardson, Don Zimmerman, "Little Preacher" Roberts, who isn't Nollie, and Joe Lottin, who is in Nollie Felts' shoes. It is a triple-threat backfield which has clicked amazingly on passes, completing an average of four per game for the season. Richardson is an excellent receiver and passer and Zimmerman has completed 17 out of 32 attempted this fall.

Tulane's football team said one close to its members, is heartily ashamed of itself for having lost to Auburn and being held to one touchdown by South Carolina. The team wants to win this one from Tech, he said, "just to show that it is a football team. There is no grudge against Auburn or South Carolina. Tulane just wants to win."

REGRET "GRUDGE." Tulane and Tech officials both regretted that the "grudge" idea had been inserted into the game. The idea is entirely foreign to the players of both teams. It will be the usually heated football game between two teams trying for the victory.

Tech is, of course, very much the underdog. The Jacket chances were hurt by the injury to Cherry and the failure of Goldsmith's ankle to mend. Cherry, of course, will be available if he is recovered, but he will not be at his real strength if he is not.

Tech's best chances today lie around the ends and through the air. Any Tech pass that is completed has given them more yardage than they have given any other team in the past week. The Jackets have gone to work for this game in a manner which indicates they are shooting to win it, not hold down a score.

Tech will be out-weighted and out-endured and the Jackets will make a fight of it. A muddy day would, of course, mean more kicking and less running with the ball. Expectations from the weather department were that occasional showers would fall today. But not a hard rain, stopping Don Zimmerman. He has averaged five and one-half yards on every try from scrimmage this year. And the Tulane people brought an even more alarming message. "Twas that 'Little Preacher' Roberts, brother of the All-Southern Tulane center some years ago, has developed into one of the best running backs Tulane has had.

Tech will start with Wink Davis as a halfback, and Wilbur Peterson at fullback and Roy McArthur at quarter.

McArthur will match his kicking against that of Zimmerman's with a fair chance of holding his own. It is an old, old story for Tech—a long chance but still a chance. The Tech defense was able to hold Vanderbilt after 12 minutes of play. It may be able to stop Tulane's today.

The Tech offense was bottled up by breaks in the game and by Vanderbilt's superior kicking. Against Tech the running game was a swift one. If it does it is a smart offense.

GEORGIA'S GREAT CHANCE.

Georgia's intersectional record, already magnificent, has a chance to become even greater today. No other southern team can point to four defeats of Yale within five years, three of them being consecutive. And no southern team has won two out of three games from as tough an eastern competitor as New York University. A Georgia victory today would mean three straight and three out of four.

THE "TWELFTH" MAN.

Little Preacher and Big Roy--- They'll Play Today

The determined young man on the left is "Little Preacher" Roberts, halfback mate of Don Zimmerman on the Tulane team which plays Tech this afternoon at Grant field. Roy McArthur, snapped just as he has thrown a pass, is an all-round star in the Engineer backfield. Tulane is expected to put its best team of the season on the field today and Tech is rapidly improving. These two boys are expected to play a large part in the contest.

BEARS FAVORED OVER COLONELS Scafide and Shroeder Bothered by Injuries

Bill Keefe Lauds Fine Feeling That Prevails Between Team Members, Supporters.

By William McG. Keefe, Times-Picayune Sports Editor.

Tulane's big Green army moved into town yesterday and this morning awaits the call to battle with the fighting Engineers of Georgia Tech at Grant field this afternoon.

While "Baby Grand" Scafide's side continues to bother him to such an extent that it is not believed he will start in Tulane's line and Bill Schroeder's instep is still swollen and painful, the Greenies were in high spirits yesterday afternoon as they went through a short, snappy all-around workout.

Schroeder very probably will get into the game at the start. The Greenies were well pleased with the condition of the men, if you bar Schroeder and Scafide. Francis Payne did not put on a uniform today and Ted Cox says there is no chance of him getting into the game.

No tip-off has been given as to what amount of warfare Tulane will wage against the Yellow Jackets, but the chances are they will go in for more off-tackle and end-running in this game than they have done so far this season. Their air attack has slowed up because of the lack of sufficient good pass receivers and as their blocking has improved by leaps and bounds, they should show a pretty good running attack.

The weather is fairly cool and crisp. It drizzled a bit yesterday, but not enough to hurt anything. Colder weather seems likely for tomorrow, with no rain. Neither side wants rain.

Coach Bill Alexander, one of the most popular men in football, saw to it that the Greenies were well protected from prying eyes this afternoon as they ran through their signal practice. Coach Alex seemed surprised at the brevity of the workout. So did some of the players. But Ted Cox and Lester Lautenschlager may have figured that the game tomorrow will go to the winning and the swift—not to the strong. And they want their men full of pep and dash.

Splendid feeling prevails between the two teams. Strange to say, Tech's followers do not seem extra jubilant at the downfall of the Wave and apparently have some sort of feeling of sympathy. Remember, they know how it feels to fall from a high pedestal. There was a time when Atlanta went up and down the land with the Golden Tornado, backing them to the last red cent—and cashing in on them game after game. Tech finally toppled, as all conquerors do sooner or later, and Atlanta, in the several years since Tech's name was synonymous for champions, has learned how to take the bitter with the sweet.

A fine parade last night through the business district indicated that the even aspect of today's game and the prospect of a nip-and-tuck tussle has brought back much of the old-time Atlanta football spirit, and a few crowd is expected. There is a lot more interest in this game than there was the last time Tulane came here, yet there is no title standing at stake.

Last night Atlanta sports writers were hoarse in their praise of the Atlanta Athletic Club. Visiting newspapermen, coaches and officials of both teams were on hand and, as the wine hall boys would say, "A good time was had by all," though there was no dancing "enjoyed until a late hour."

Supporters are asking for six points, but they are asking in a sort of shame-faced way, which indicates they will be perfectly willing to bet even money, even points tomorrow.

MARION LOSES.

MARION, Ala., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Middle Georgia College defeated Marion Junior College here today, 7 to 0. Tenent, Middle Georgia, blocked a kick on the 40-yard line and Scarbrough recovered and ran for a touchdown. Linder placed-kicked for extra point. NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Georgia and N. Y. U., unhappy warriors of the southern and eastern football campaigns, respectively, will meet in New York on each other tomorrow afternoon at Yankee stadium. Eager to pluck this choice intersectional plum, which tonight daunted tantalizingly within reach of both.

A plume would be most acceptable to the players of either side, since each has gathered its share of the sour fruits this season.

Despite some stiff competition that will come from South and St. Mary's, who are playing at the Polo Grounds, some of the conservative New York journals today predicted a crowd of 30,000 to watch the Violets and the Bulldogs have their annual joust.

Kick-off time has been announced at 2 p. m., eastern time, and, judging from the present outlook, ideal weather and the fastest of fields will favor the home team.

FINE WEATHER. The Georgia squad arrived here early this morning to find the sun shining as brightly and warmly as in their own native southland. There was just enough chill in the air to permit topcoats. The most finicky observer of the weather man could not have asked for any better in New York at this time of year.

Coach Harry Mehre immediately carried his lads as far from Gotham's maddening crowd as he could conveniently go, the team putting up at the Croton hotel, a hostelry local sportsmen know in the Bronx and within easy commuting distance of the big stadium, where Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig conduct the afternoon baseball throngs during the hot summer time.

This afternoon the Bulldogs put on suits and went for a short workout on the field where tomorrow they will seek to wrest victory from the sore and vented men of Coach Howard G. Cann.

Since Slip Madigan and his conquering St. Mary's Gaels from the coast were brightly coming in the newspapers were giving the top ribbons over to that outfit, being inclined to make the Georgia-N. Y. U. game second choice in the public eye in view of both teams' records. One finds, however (and not by lapel microphone) a widespread and unimpaired of public interest running around through the masses.

While Georgia may not be so powerful an invader as she was in the last two years, N. Y. U., the defender, still has a couple of T-6 defeats registered against its name by these imperishable youngsters. The record of cotton. In the same reference let it be said that N. Y. U. has a flock of fast and veteran backs who have been off stride for the last two games and N. Y. U. partisans hope and look for their return to the feeding trough tomorrow.

HID PREPARATION. It develops that the Violet coaching staff has left no manner of stone unturned in a vigorous effort to even the count with Georgia. The Georgia Coach Cann has had his ace scout on the trail of the Bulldogs in every game they have played this season. This is the first time Georgia has met a team coached by Cann and the latter would like very much to accomplish something that his predecessor, Chick Mehan, failed to do last year. And the year before with virtually the same team. It would be a feather in Cann's cap which could use a feather.

The various Gotham critics were inclined to give Georgia a chance in their forecasts today. William Trenor in the Sun pointed out that Georgia's short-side punches had worried the N. Y. U. varsity in scrimmages against the third team running Georgia plays and predicted that the game might be another free-scoring affair such as the 27-0 contest which N. Y. U. won over Georgia's sophomores in 1929.

Chick Mehan, who coached Georgia last year, pointed out that although Georgia's record showed three losses, she could not be such a "weak sister" considering that she was able to score four touchdowns on Tulane, five on Florida and one each on V. P. I. and Vanderbilt, two of the south's inebates teams.

Harry Mehre, in referring to this angle, said that his team had played its best game thus far against Vanderbilt. The fact that Georgia lost the V. P. I. game the week before when Georgia was expected to win actually made her showing against Tulane look better, Mehre added. Otherwise, he thought his team looked worst against Tulane than any team it has played.

PASSES PUZZLE.

Tom Reilly, writing in the World-Telegram, said that Georgia's passing game had puzzled N. Y. U. all week and predicted that the Bulldogs would score early by that route. Coach Cann, of N. Y. U., in an effort to overcome the ineptitude of his backfield against Purdue, which game saw the Violets take the worst shelling they have taken in eight years, announced today an important change. He said he would start Johnny White, sophomore, of Naugatuck, Conn., at a halfback. Jack McDonald, the team's leading passer, would be moved to fullback.

GIRL NOT DRINKING, E. S. ACREE ADMITS

Patrolman on Stand,
Says Miss Willis Not Disorderly; Testimony Ends

Arguments in the $50,000 false arrest suit against E. S. Acree, leader of the police squad, will be heard Monday morning in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court. Testimony was concluded Friday afternoon and adjournment taken until Monday.

On the stand, Acree admitted under cross-examination that the plaintiff, Miss Mildred Willis, 16, had not been drinking and had not committed any act which could have been construed as disorderly conduct. Acree claimed that an empty whisky bottle was found in the car in which Miss Willis was sitting with Miss Louise Smith and Lloyd Culpepper, who also have filed damage suits against Acree. Acree denied that he had told officers after the damage suits were filed that he would give $50 to anyone who could catch Culpepper with liquor. He identified Culpepper as a youth who was fined in criminal court of Atlanta previous to the arrest at Decatur and Bell streets, but Acree denied that Culpepper had claimed in court that he had been "framed" for possessing liquor.

Miss Willis testified that her arrest had forced her to leave two schools, O'Keefe Junior High school and the Atlanta Opportunity school, because of comment over the case. Miss Willis, Miss Smith and Culpepper deny that any member of the party had been drinking or that they were guilty of disorderly conduct. The cases made by Acree were dismissed in police court, the plaintiff showed.

The defense sought to show that Acree merely carried the plaintiff and her friends to the police station to see the police captain, who, according to the defense contention, ordered Acree to book cases.

Paul S. Etheridge, Sr. and Paul S. Etheridge Jr. represent Miss Willis, Murphy Holloway, former police court judge, represents Acree.

General Presentments of the Grand Jury

In the Superior Court, Fulton County, Georgia, September-October term, 1932. General Presentments of the Grand Jury.

To the Honorable Judge of said court: Sir: Your grand jury for the September-October term of this court respectfully submits its general presentments as follows:

Inspections—a compliance with the law, committees of this grand jury have visited and inspected all convict camps, almshouses, industrial farms and the county jail. Several county schools were visited and a complete inspection was made of several county highways and bridges.

Convict Camps—The county maintains nine convict camps for confining its prison population. Two of these camps are for colored men, and one for colored women.

The committee which visited and inspected the convict camps found satisfactory conditions prevailing.

The health of the convicts was found to be remarkably good, considering the fact that only 15 out of a population of 1,194 were ill and none of the convicts were suffering from any serious nature. Good, wholesome food is being served in ample quantities, and the diet is well balanced with fresh vegetables. The working apparel and bedding was examined, and as a whole was in fair condition and reasonably clean. A majority of the camps have only one set of sheets and pillow cases, causing them to be without bed linen when they are being washed at the laundry at Bellwood camp. W. S. therefore, an extra set of sheets and pillow cases be furnished all camps.

The buildings were in a good state of repair and in sanitary condition, with separate living quarters for the white and colored convicts. They are all well ventilated, heated, screened, and properly bathed and the majority are equipped with fire protection. Most of the convicts had no covers, as required by regulations of the prison commission, and in account of their being located in the center of the camps, close-fitting tops should be provided.

Three new camps have been built during the current year: Stonewall, Ben Hill and Milton, which with the six old camps, give a capacity of 1,525, while the present population is 1,194. The general presentment of the camps are to be commended for the efficient and faithful services being rendered, not only for the interest of Fulton county, but the welfare of the convicts.

Alms Houses and Industrial Farms. The committee which visited these institutions was very favorably impressed with conditions found and the manner in which they are being operated.

At the time of the committee's visit to the alms houses, there were 176 inmates in the white unit and 80 inmates in the colored unit. The food being served at both of these institutions was found to be good and wholesome with a variety of vegetables. Inmates confined to the hospital wards are served specially prepared food and are being cared for in an excellent manner.

The inspection of the industrial farm for white boys at Haverhill and the industrial farm for colored boys located on the river below Adamsville revealed the fact that both of these institutions are doing excellent work. The boys at these institutions are given four hours schooling each day and are being well cared for. The kitchen and dining room at the white industrial farm should be given a coat of paint to improve their appearance. The committee also visited the prison and inspected the county jail found the prisoners being cared for as well as could be expected, considering the fact that the prison is overcrowded and the inmates are confined. On the day of the visit there were 366 prisoners—313 male, white and colored, and 53 female, white and colored.

Some recent improvements in the jail have increased the capacity of same to 520, and have provided more modern quarters on the second floor for white female prisoners. It is gratifying to report that there are only seven white female prisoners in jail, this being the smallest number in a long period. The building is in fair sanitary condition, with sufficient ventilation and heating facilities.

The jail not being provided with any special facilities for taking care of the insane prisoners, some of the prisoners reported that they were being greatly disturbed, mostly at night, by constant boisterous talk and knocking on the metal sheet walls by the few insane prisoners now confined in the jail. If some special arrangements could be made to take care of this class of prisoners, we respectfully suggest that same be done.

The wholesome food of sufficient quantity is served to the prisoners in their compartments in individual containers twice per day.

The personnel of the jail seems to have a deep interest in the welfare of the prisoners and are using their best efforts in making them comfortable.

Schools—Several of the county schools were visited and found in satisfactory condition—capable principals and teachers are in charge and good discipline is being maintained. Several new schools have been built this year and some now are nearing completion. The new schools are modern in every respect and appear to be of sufficient size to take care of some future growth. Additions have been made to several of the county schools which will eliminate the necessity of double sessions.

Highways and Bridges—The committee which inspected the highways and bridges covered approximately 140 miles of roads in Fulton and several of the roads and bridges were in good condition. Work was in progress on several of the roads and bridges and was progressing satisfactorily. Much work is being done in surfacing the dirt roads of Campbell and Milton counties. The bridge known as "Abbot's bridge" in old Milton county is now being overhauled, reinforced and repainted. A new approach has been added to the western end of this bridge. A new concrete bridge is now being erected over South river at the Pryor street extension, and a new road is being built across the bottom land at this point.

The bridge across the Chattahoochee river were inspected and found to be in good condition.

Some of the roads in old Milton county were found to be in very bad condition and considerable work will be necessary to put them in shape. Some work is now in progress near Alpharetta, but it is being performed with a force of men entirely inadequate for the job. Some work is also in progress on highway No. 9 between Alpharetta and Atlanta.

The bridge known as Moore's Mill road bridge across the tracks of the Seaboard Airline railway was inspected and in the opinion of the committee was declared to be a serious menace to public safety. This bridge is very narrow and should be widened. It is maintained by the Seaboard Airline railway and it is our recommendation that the matter be taken up with the railroad company with a request that the bridge be widened and made safe for traffic.

Finance—What the county commissioners have accomplished in the matter of reducing expenses is very commendable and has our approval, but in view of the decreased income and added expenses brought about by the additional school tax, larger appropriation for unemployment relief and caring for an abnormal number of convicts and prisoners it appears that the county will not be able to operate on its present income.

The taxpayer is unable now to meet the present scale of taxes and additional revenue from the state is not expected. It, therefore, appears that it will be necessary for still further reduction of expenses by the county commissioners.

Economy Measure—In view of the conditions that exist at the present time and the need for drastic economy, it is our recommendation that, excepting the salaries of the judges of the superior courts and the solicitors of these courts, a further reduction in salaries be made of all employees of the county government, such reductions to be in line with salaries paid by local business concerns for comparable positions. Also that all unnecessary expenses be eliminated from the county government, and that all branches of the county departments.

2. At the present time each superior court judge appoints one bailiff who is on duty the entire day in each of the superior courts. The sheriff's office appoints an extra bailiff to serve in each of these courts, who is only on duty while such courts are in session, their hours of work being approximately from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. five days per week. We recommend that the practice of a special bailiff being appointed for each of these courts by the sheriff's office be discontinued and such bailiffs as are necessary for duty while the superior courts are in session be supplied from the regular force of the sheriff's office and be required to report back to the sheriff's office at the adjournment of each court each day to resume their regular duties.

3. We find that the heaviest expense to be met by the county is in connection with the operation of the public works, which includes the cost of caring for an increasing number of convicts daily. We are heartily in favor of and approve the plan now being worked out by the judges of the superior courts, in which the county commissioners to relieve this situation by paroling all first-offense convicts who have served 70 per cent of their terms. We believe that this measure will result in a considerable saving to the county.

4. Our survey and inspection of the Fulton county jails, alms houses, and other county institutions revealed the fact that they are widely separated and if some suitable plan could be worked out for the consolidation of these institutions it is felt that such a consolidation would result in the conservation of considerable time and money.

5. At the present time the county maintains and operates a large number of automobiles, several of which are in the high price class. We recommend that consideration be given to the use of lower priced cars in certain departments and the elimination of all cars that can possibly be dispensed with.

6. It is the recommendation of this grand jury that the contract for auditing work performed for the county be let on a competitive bid basis—bids to be secured from at least three independent auditing firms doing business in county of Fulton.

7. Regarding the department of registration of voters, we understand that the registration lists are now complete and in satisfactory condition. Inasmuch as there will not be an election during the next year, we recommend that this office be abolished for this period of time.

Recommendations of Other Grand Jurors—1. With reference to the recommendation of the preceding grand jury concerning overlapping membership of grand juries, we believe this could work to an advantage in completing work originating by a former grand jury. We fail to see any disadvantage to this proposition and add our recommendation thereto.

2. With reference to a recommendation of the preceding grand jury, the September-October, 1931, grand jury concerning the passage of a bill by the state legislature entitled "An act to alter and amend the laws relating to practice and procedure in criminal cases in the courts of this state."

This bill as we understand it would avoid delays and also the congested conditions now found in all the courts of this state. It would avoid unnecessary technicalities and would also avoid repeated trials of joint offenders, giving the court the discretion of trying joint offenders collectively instead of separately as now provided by law. It would allow for the amendment of pleadings which would obviate postponements, reintendments, reassembling of the grand jury, resubpoening witnesses, etc. The net result is that temporary challenges have been materially reduced in this proposed bill, which would result in a great saving to the county and the state.

We add our recommendation for the passage of this bill and urge the representatives of this county to do all in their power to bring this about.

Money Lenders and Salary Purchasers—In the closing sessions of our deliberations we were requested by a representative of the Atlanta Thrift Society to investigate the activities of small money lenders and salary purchasers, but due to the limited time we had for such an investigation we were not able to go into the matter thoroughly from all angles, but we did develop the fact that a large number of suits are being filed in connection with these transactions and such suits are costing the county a considerable sum. In most cases in which judgments were secured it was found that the defendant was unable to pay the debt, thereby making it necessary for the county to bear the court costs.

We recommend that the succeeding grand jury go into this matter further with a view, if possible, of relieving this situation, both from the standpoint of the defendant and from a standpoint of expense to the county.

Pay for Jurymen—This being the fall term of the court, in compliance with the provision of Section 876 of the penal code, we fix the compensation of both grand and petit jurors at $3 per day.

Commendations—We wish to express our appreciation for the courteous help and assistance given us by

ADVISE IS SOUGHT ON FIRE CHANGES

Board To Ask Underwriters
To Review Economics
Recommended.

Technical advice of the National Board of Fire Underwriters and the Southeastern Fire Underwriters' Association will be sought before the Atlanta board of firemen takes any definite action on recommended economies in the Atlanta fire department, it was decided Friday afternoon at a meeting of the board.

The Atlanta board also voted that if cuts are made, 25 men laid off and other economies effected to save more than $100,000 a year as recommended by the board.

The board also recommended that the seniority of men now in the service will be recognized and those most recently added to the department will be the ones to feel the brunt of any slashes.

This action was taken after Alderman J. Charlie Murphy told the board that the "entire department is in a state of demoralization due to the recommendations."

W. Evans Chambers, survey expert of the city government, made the survey of the department, and Friday was ordered to investigate the police department immediately with a view of recommending economies in that division of the municipal government.

The board of firemen Friday afternoon considered many of the recommendations Chambers made, but decided that the entire list of proposed economies and reorganization should be reviewed by the underwriters before any action is taken.

The board felt that insurance rates of Atlanta should be given the first consideration, and that ample protection should be furnished citizens. Alderman J. C. Seawright, chairman of the board, said: "We have done everything possible to cut fire losses in Atlanta and up to the present time this cost the city government $2,500,000. The lowest figure in the department's history. Submission of the report to the underwriters will insure ample protection for Atlanta, and at the same time enable us to effect any reasonable economies asked in the recommendations."

Chambers recommended that 53 men be dropped, that the inspection department be abolished and that each fireman be required to be an inspector. It also recommended elimination of two stations in the downtown section.

LABOR SURVEY SHOWS UPTURN BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor's monthly survey tonight said "business has gained this fall for the first time since the spring of 1931."

This upturn, the statement continued, was felt particularly in the textiles, shoes, clothing, foods and printing industries, indicating that the country has been at work at least since the summer of 1931.

The survey said the revival was of a little more than seasonal proportions, "but was checked in mid-October and business did not go forward into a marked upward trend."

"We cannot see large gains in business while buying power is at so low a level," said the statement.

In September, the federation asserted, 500,000 workers found at least temporary employment, but 10,000,000 were still unemployed.

This gain has little significance as relief of the distress of the unemployed winter layoffs can be prevented," the review said. "For the last three years from 1,000,000 to 1,600,000 workers have been laid off from October to January."

"Many of the problems which check our recovery are worldwide and must be solved by international action. But the world economic conference is scheduled to discuss them next year and already the United States has sent experts to prepare for the date."

Intelligent opinion at home they cannot make decisions which will contribute to recovery."

The statement said jobs must be created, basic wage rates raised and work hours shortened.

On the Air Today

An hour and a quarter program taken from a monster democratic rally at Madison Square Garden, New York, will be broadcast over the Columbia network and WGST and the NBC and WSB tonight. The time will be 8:30 for WSB and from 8:15 to 9:30 for WGST. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, the democratic presidential nominee, will share the platform with a number of other prominent party leaders. The meeting itself is being held in advocacy not only of Governor Roosevelt's candidacy, but in support of John P. O'Brien, mayoralty nominee, and Herbert H. Lehman, gubernatorial nominee.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

"Get out of here!" thundered Sir Herbert.

Syd quailed before a glance. "Less of it, viper," he said curtly. And then, for the first time, his gaze fell on Ma Price, and he stood, bewildered.

"Ma! You're here?"

"Ma! You're here?"

"Oh, Syd," she cried, "I see it just in time!"

"Seen what?"

"The mapie. It was sent. Another second and I'd have signed the paper."

"Paper?" A sudden blinding light shone upon Syd. "Jimmy Christmas!" he exclaimed, stunned. "More tampering!"

He turned on Sir Herbert, aglow with righteous indignation. "Of all the slippery, sly, 'human' cels, I've only to take me eye off you for a half a tick and you're up to your old games. It's enough to drive a fellow silly." He swung around and pointed an accusing finger at Mr. Wetherby.

"Ere, you with the face. Call yourself a lawyer? Lending yourself to these goings-on? I've a good mind to report you to the lord chancellor or whoever it is and have you struck off the rolls!"

Lady Lydia appealed to her masculine allies. The situation seemed to her to be beyond the scope of a frail woman.

"Is there any way of removing this appalling man?" she moaned.

"No, there ain't," said Syd. "Not till I've done what I come to do."

"Fetch in that ladder!" he said. And Charles, the footman, entered, carrying with some difficulty a short ladder, at which Sir Herbert stared, completely at a loss.

"What the devil are you up to now?" demanded Sir Herbert.

Syd pointed at the portrait of Long-Sword above the mantelpiece. "Sub-poena-ing His Nibs," he said. "Creeky! That portrait ain't safe 'ere. First thing I know, if I don't take it away, you'll be painting a new face on it."

He took the other end of the ladder and moved resolutely towards the mantelpiece. Footman Charles, who would have been the first to admit that he did not know what all this was about but who was having the time of his life, moved with him, a docile ally. Charles was of an age to enjoy family rows. This one looked like culminating in mayhem; and it culminated in mayhem that was all right with Charles.

"Is it your wish, Sir Herbert," he asked, panting a little with emotion, "that the portrait be removed?"

"Certainly not!" cried Lady Lydia. "Of course not," boomed Sir Herbert. "Take that damned ladder out of here!"

Syd was not to be intimidated by word or by look. He knew his rights and meant to stick up for them.

"I'm going to show that picture in court. It'll 'elp my case, and I mean to 'ave it."

Ma Price, like Charles, was foggy as to what exactly all this was about, but she felt that a word in season could do no harm.

"Oh, Syd," she said. "Don't be so 'asty."

Syd waved her down imperiously. "Cheese it, Ma. Here, give that to me," he exclaimed with sudden fury. For Slingsby, an active force at last, had pushed him away and caused him to loosen his grip on the ladder. He made a dive to recover it, and Slingsby and Charles, the latter now definitely beaming, lifted it over his head.

He uttered a stricken cry. "Now you've made me walk under a ladder! Just as my case is going to be tried, too!"

It was essentially a scene of action, in which it would have been unreasonable to expect anything in the nature of sparkling dialogue from those involved. Mr. Wetherby clicked his tongue and said that all this was most irregular. Ma Price exclaimed, "Syd, dearie!" and Slingsby shouted, "Let go of me, you young ruffian!" But, apart from this, a grim silence prevailed, broken only by the hard breathing of the combatants and the occasional cry of the wounded.

Above the fray, Long-Sword looked down—it seemed approvingly. Many was the time Long-Sword had been mixed up in this sort of free-for-all. If he had a criticism to offer, it was probably a regret that there was no battle-axe work. Apart from that, he had nothing to suggest. The affair had begun to develop on the most satisfactory lines, for now Sir Herbert Baskinger had been drawn into the battle-swirl.

At the beginning of the struggle, Sir Herbert had stood aloof, contenting himself with word and gesture. But now a swift turn on the part of Slingsby caused the ladder to revolve in his direction. Syd shifted his hold from the butler's coat to the ladder itself. It swung menacingly at the baronet's waistcoat, and he pushed it away. Slingsby and Charles gave a quick hoist and then pulled down-wards. This placed Sir Herbert in jeopardy once more. To avoid being hit on the shins, he leaped like a young lamb in springtime and, descending, found himself with one leg between the rungs. In this position he hopped madly.

"Stop it!" bellowed Sir Herbert. "Can't you see you're pulling me apart? Stop it! I'm caught!"

The butler heard the voice of authority, and was not deaf to its pleadings. With a mighty effort he jerked the ladder down. It swung sharply outwards, and Syd, being in its path, dropped like corn before the sickle.

"Let me out!"

The ladder fell. Sir Herbert fell into a chair, clutching his foot.

"Hell and blazes!" cried Sir Herbert, in agony. "My gouty toe, too!" He glared at Syd. "It's all your fault, you confounded bootlegger!"

Mere verbal censure could not hurt Syd now. He had passed that phase. He was clapping his stomach and rocking agitatedly.

"If any of my innards are knocked out of place," he stated, "I'll have the law on the blooming lot of you!"

Sir Herbert turned to Slingsby. "Slingsby, will you see this young man off the premises as quickly as possible?"

A beautiful smile came into the butler's crooked face. "As soon as the patient is well the doctor is forgotten."

"Beg pardon, could I hear that again, Sir Herbert?"

"See," said Lady Lydia, "that he is packed up and shown the way to the park gates.

"Yes, m'lady. Thank you, m'lady." Licking his lips, the butler examined the toe of his right shoe a moment; then, clenching and unclenching his hands, he advanced upon Syd. Syd backed toward the window.

"Now, then!" he urged. "No violence!"

Ma Price threw herself in the path of vengeance.

"Theodore! Don't you dare to touch him!"

"Out of the way, Bella."

"I've warned you," said Syd nervously, continuing his retreat. Then, as the butler's advance became too menacing to be endured, he made a sudden bolt for the window; and, doing so, collided heavily with Tony, who, followed by Freddie and Polly, was at that moment coming in.

Tony caught Syd neatly and bounced him back into the room.

"Football season's begun early this year, hasn't it?" he said, puzzled. He looked upon Slingsby, who was breathing heavily and seemed as if at any instant he might begin exhaling fire to Syd, who had taken refuge behind the sofa and was watching the proceedings with a heavy yawn in mingled defiance and defiance. "What's it all about?"

Sir Herbert answered the question. "Only Lord Droivitch proving his gentle birth by bawling with the butler."

Syd was gruffly apologetic. "P'raps I was wrong to get my monkey up, but I saw red."

"You look red," said Freddie. "I don't suppose the first Droivitch was to make a mistake."

"No," agreed Sir Herbert. "If you are a Droivitch, your father made a big one."

Syd was wounded. He addressed himself to Ma Price.

"Ere that?" He turned to Sir Herbert. "In the face of extreme provocation," he said with dignity. "I've done me best to keep on friendly terms with you and Aunt Lydia, but it don't seem to be any use."

"But, what's the trouble about?" asked Tony.

Sir Herbert snorted. His recent experiences had left him ruffled. The pain in his toe had begun to abate, but his feelings were outraged. "He was trying to remove the Pour-bous."

"I wasn't," said Syd heatedly. "All I was after was that picture up there."

The name of the artist who painted the portrait of Long-Sword, said Lady Lydia, with frigid scorn, "was Pourbous."

"Oh?" Syd seemed to digest this. "Well, my way."

Tony looked puzzled.

"What did you want old Long-Sword for?" he asked.

"So as there shouldn't be any tampering with him. I didn't want his face altered before I got him into court. Ma," said Syd, waving his hand, "take a squint at that old jester and tell me who he reminds you of."

"Well, he like me or isn't he?" demanded Syd impatiently.

Ma Price peered at the portrait. "It certainly does look like you, dearie."

"He hasn't quite got my expression. The determination, I mean. Maybe he had it, and there's the portrait. He didn't put it in. Still, my lawyers think that old bloke is going to 'elp me a lot, and I don't intend to have any serious tampering with him."

Tony laughed.

"Is that all that's troubling you? You needn't worry. I'll see that Long-Sword is in court to witness the strategy, complete with face as at present."

"Wall!" said Syd, impressed. "You may be a barber's son, but, blimey, you fight like a gentleman. I suppose you know that picture is going to dish you properly? What I mean, if Ma sticks to her evidence the way she's going to."

"Very likely."

Syd seemed a little bewildered. "He asked."

"Well, honestly, said Tony, "after hearing Freddie's news, I admit I'm wavering. You see, if I win, I shall be Lord Droivitch."

"You won't win."

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 120

In the Dundwa foothills, a company of "Tom-mies" led by Captain Canby lay ready to follow their comrades over the top against the Gurkhas, when dawn tinged the Indian mountains. Across the valley they could see the campfires of the natives.

Faintly, weird sounds were borne across to them by the night breeze. Pat's father, sleepless, thought of the strange rites going on among the enemy as they raised their courage by incantations to their gods. He wondered what might be happening to Pat, his daughter.

For over an hour, the motor-car bearing the three fugitives, raced down the road. They were now well out of the maharajah's immediate territory and Roger's apprehensions were a bit relieved. Once they were forced to slow down by a rocky bend.

Suddenly a light ahead brought them to a stop. Roger, pistol cocked, investigating, had gone but a few yards when a startled scream brought him racing back. As though the night had swallowed her up, Patricia Canby had disappeared!
